

Gaming Laboratories International (GLI) Attracts Huge Crowd to Upcoming Midwest Regional Seminar, to be Held July 25 at Potawatomi Bingo Casino

LAS VEGAS (July 17, 2013) – Gaming Laboratories International \(GLI\), the world's leading gaming technical consulting and independent certification laboratory, will stage its next Regional Seminar on July 25 at Potawatomi Bingo Casino in Milwaukee, Wisc.

Already the Midwest Regional Seminar has drawn multiple commissioners, regulators, auditors and casino operations managers and staff from Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and Wisconsin. A few seats remain available. The seminar is presented free of charge and RSVP is required. For information and registration, visit www.gaminglabs.com or call (702) 914-2220.

The event is produced through the company's renowned training program GLI University® and will feature an intensive focus on some of today's most pressing topics facing gaming regulators across the Midwest. Topics presented at the Midwest Regional Seminar include:

- "Taking Your Current Gaming Environment to the Next Level"
- "Protecting Your Property: Are You Ready for New Forms of Technology on the Horizon?"
- "Technology Migration and the Online System"

Additionally, Jamie Hummingbird, Director of the Cherokee Nation Gaming Commission and Chairman of the National Tribal Gaming Commissioners/Regulators, will lead the panel discussion, "How are Commissions in the Midwest Preparing for New Forms of Gaming?" Also appearing on the panel are Vince Cook, Regulatory Director for the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians; Ian Hudson, Executive Director of the Iowa Racing & Gaming Commission; and Cheyenne Landru, Gaming Commission Chair for the Sokaogon Chippewa Community.

GLI University was nominated as "The Educational Development Programme of the Year in the Land-based Casino Sector" in the Totally Gaming Awards 2013.
